ANNUAL REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES
NEW YORK SOCIETY LIBRARY.

THE Trustees of the New York Society Library respectfully submit the following Report, made in obedience to the By-Law prescribing that a Report of the affairs and condition of this Corporation shall be presented to the members thereof, at their regular annual meeting in each year:

The state of this ancient Institution during the year ending in April, 1865, differed little from that stated in the Reports for the two years immediately preceding. The aggregate receipts from all sources were a little less ($167.85) than in the year before. This was caused by a decrease in the amount paid for commutation of the annual dues. But there has been a small increase of the number of shares sold, and the amount received from temporary subscriptions is nearly a third more than it was in 1863-4.

This Corporation own in fee the valuable lots and building which it occupies. These are unincumbered by any debt, and all the current expenses have been settled up to the close of the fiscal year.

The use of the Library, as well for occasional consultation as by the taking out of the books by the shareholders, continues to increase.

The number of volumes thus circulating among the members and their families during the year past was 32,642 volumes, against 28,401 in the preceding year, which had been largely in advance of any previous year. The state of the currency, and the rate of prices from various causes, and affecting all subjects of expenditure, added proportionately to all the necessary expenses of the Institution, whilst the chief source of income, that arising from annual dues, being fixed by law, could not be augmented. The Library was increased during the year, by purchase and otherwise, 806 volumes, a less increase than has been made for several years past, this decrease arising from the greatly increased cost of books; but nearly all the productions of the American press of any value, whether original or reprints, have been procured. There has been no curtailment of the supplies of the current periodicals, literary and scientific, and newspapers, foreign or domestic, in the Reading-Room, although the cost of the imported periodicals, etc., has been more than doubled. The reading-room continues to be much frequented, and the reviews, magazines, and papers taken there, when their novelty is passed, are bound and transferred to the Library.

Sixteen new shares have been added during the year.

The Trustees had hoped to print, during the last year, a supplementary catalogue of the books added to the Library since 1850. As a considerable number of catalogues prepared fifteen years ago still remained in their hands, and as this former catalogue was well printed, and had been prepared with care, both economy and convenience would be consulted by printing a second or supplementary volume, instead of having an entirely new one. The material for the supplement has been prepared, and it is now ready for the press.

It has been delayed by the cost of printing and other causes, but it is hoped that the means of printing it will not be long wanting. It will contain the titles of about 12,000 volumes, as the former catalogue did of nearly 40,000, making a total of about 52,000 volumes.

The Library collection is useful and valuable, and contains many rare and curious works. Yet it is deficient in many recent works of art and science published abroad and never reprinted here.

It is to be hoped that when the present difficulties have passed away the deficiency will be supplied. There are five printed catalogues of the Library now in its possession. The first, in 1758, gives the titles of 808 volumes. The second, in 1761, gives 1,042 volumes. The third in order, gives 4,722 volumes. The comparison is curious, and shows the gradual and constant increase of the Institution. Whilst the history of the Library testifies to so many years of useful public service, it is to be regretted that the increase of later years falls so far short of the comparative growth of the city in population.

As the New York Society Library is a private Corporation, founded and supported wholly by individual private contributors, the public has no claim upon it for the use of its collections. But for many years the utmost facility has been given to all persons to consult and examine its books. The Library, besides its 56,000 volumes, the gradual accumulation of almost a century, including a large body of various learning, has also become rich in files of newspapers of former days, public documents, pamphlets, State laws, etc.; and the use made of these for consultation, for political, legal, or antiquarian and historical purposes, is every year increasing, and is continually found to be of great interest and value to the press, the bar, and the public.

This liberal extension of a private foundation to gratuitous and valuable public uses, ought surely to entitle it to general public favor.

The Library having, by the slow accumulation of years, thus acquired and freely opened to the public so large a collection of the fugitive printed matter of former times, now of much value and frequent consultation, the Trustees cannot but again invite their fellow-citizens and the public to add to the collection any pamphlets and papers, or periodicals, which may be accidentally in their possession. These are commonly of little value to the present possessor, and it is by collection in one library and preservation that they become useful and often precious. They are here carefully arranged so as to make them easy of reference. Many such donations were received during the last year, and the Trustees request the continuance of similar gifts.

After this statement of the unencumbered condition of this valuable institution, its quiet and unpretending continuance in ministering to the gratification and improvement of a numerous class of our citizens during another year of gloom and difficulties, it is hoped that such evidence has been given of its capacity for much more extended future usefulness as will bring to it, with the return of peace and prosperity to the community, a much more liberal share of public and private favor than it has ever yet received.

Donations of books to the number of 191 volumes have been received, for which the Library is highly indebted to the following donors:

George N. Cleaveland, Esq.; Hon. J. Winthrop Chanler; Hon. Thomas C. Fields; John A. Stevens, Jr., Esq.; Hon. J. R. Bartlett; Hon. James Brooks; Hon. Albert Cardozo; Hon. Gulian C. Dr. Cressy; John Campbell, Esq.; and the Board of Supervisors of New York.

The number of volumes added to the Library were:

By purchase.....	551
By binding.....	64
By donations.....	191

Total..... 806

Number of Pamphlets added, 207.
