REGULATIONS.

Lending.—Every shareholder or subscriber to the New York Society Library shall be allowed to take out four works at a time, of which not more than one shall be a new work.

New books may be kept one week only. Other books may be kept three weeks, with the privilege of renewal, unless other members have applied for them.

Books recently purchased or for any reason in demand will be considered as new books.

Fines.—One cent per volume must be paid for each day they are retained over the time allowed. Loss or damage of books must be paid for; if a part of a set, the value of the entire set must be paid for.

No member shall lend any books belonging to the library.

The annual dues of shareholders should be paid by cheque to the order of the Treasurer.

Temporary subscribers are required, at the time of subscription, to sign the customary agreement in the "Subscribers' Book." The Librarian will give a receipt for each subscription.

Payments should be made to the Librarian for fines, books lost, expressage, postage, etc., and receipts will be furnished by him in the name of the Treasurer at the time of payment.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

TRUSTEES OF THE NEW YORK SOCIETY

LIBRARY.

The Trustees of the New York Society Library respectfully submit to the shareholders the following statement of its condition for the year ending March 31, 1905:

The report of the Treasurer, presented herewith, shows that the receipts from all sources have amounted during the year to $63,569.88 and the disbursements of all kinds to $50,080.76. Of the receipts $44,601.54 should be credited to capital and $16,336.63 to income, irrespective of the income of the Green Fund, which amounted to $2,631.71.

The total number of persons using the Library was 23,188, of whom 8,253 were men, and the total number of volumes drawn was 30,488, showing a substantial increase over the previous year. The circulation of books was the largest in March of this year and the smallest in August, 1904. The books on the Fine Arts in the Green Alcoves were used by 307 men and 453 women. There were sent by mail and express into the country 420 parcels of books. The Library is now making use of special rates offered by the express companies, and no doubt these facilities will be used more widely during the coming season.

From March 1, 1904, to February 28, 1905, our messengers carried 21,625 books, visiting 6,892 places between No. 1 Broadway and 145th Street. Many members have expressed their pleasure at the instituting of the free delivery of books in February, 1904, and satisfaction over the progressive spirit shown by the Trustees and their evident desire to furnish all conveniences and facilities compatible with the resources of the Library. The unusual amount of snow and the strikes during the winter have rendered prompt and regular delivery difficult, but it has met all reasonable expectations and given general satisfaction.

In January seventy-eight volumes on Egyptology were received through the sons of the late President Henry Morton, of Stevens Institute. It was stated that President Morton selected the Society Library as the depository for the books, for the reason that it exercises a more liberal policy in the circulation of its books than other libraries. This Library has made a practice of circulating books which other libraries class as reference books and do not permit to be removed from their buildings under any circumstances.

The advantages resulting to our members who are so favored by our policy are heartily appreciated.

In this day, when the total issue of books published is over 50,000 annually and the book capacity of private houses in the city is extremely limited, it is an enormous convenience to belong to a library which will deliver nearly any book desired at your residence free of charge and remove and store it for you, when you have finished using it for the time being. It then becomes necessary to own and keep only a few favorite books, as information can be obtained by letter, over the telephone, or from the proper reference book delivered at your residence. Thus delicate or sensitive persons, who object to ill-ventilated or crowded rooms, do not suffer the discomforts of a public library. At the same time the entire freedom of access to books in the Society Library building, the absence of a crowd and of troublesome rules and regulations, together with the special conveniences offered to members for research and reference, furnish unusually delightful conditions under which to pursue literary tasks and pleasures.

The Society Library of to-day is very different from the library a decade ago. It follows that these changes in method made for the convenience of the members mean an increase of the staff of the Library and of the expense of administration. The old-fashioned method requiring a member to come to the Library in person to get a book and often go away disappointed and come again perhaps with the same result, no longer obtains. By means of the telephone and mail, popular books are ordered and placed on a reserve list months before publication, and are delivered free of charge when published, without further orders from the members.

In 1902, the first year in which a record was kept of the delivery of books, 1,997 places were visited and 7,617 books carried. As noted above, 6,892 places were visited and 21,625 books were carried this past year. It now requires the entire time of one person to charge books and keep the reserve lists in order, where formerly the desk attendant performed several other functions.

The delivery service is especially appreciated by invalids and those who are confined to their houses by sickness or for other reasons, and it often happens that a telephone message received as late as five o'clock in the afternoon effects the delivery of the book before six, even in the uptown portions of the city.

There is a general impression current, that there is a rage for new books and that a book several weeks old is not worth reading, and the reports of most public libraries show that their circulation has been curtailed seriously by ephemeral concerns which advertise to furnish new books only, but the experience of the Society Library has shown that old authors are not neglected, if provided in new editions, with the best paper and type procurable.

New editions of Trollope, Scott, Dickens, Richardson, Thackeray and Disraeli, purchased within a few years, have been called for nearly as often as the "best sellers" in fiction. This is an age when unusual attention is paid to hygiene and contagion, and one chief security of a membership in the Society Library is the fact that its books have always circulated among a select membership.

Our annual subscriptions, which in 1890 amounted to $206 and in 1900 to $201, this past year were over $700. If the Library were to advertise its advantages in the daily papers, as most business concerns do, no doubt its patronage would increase, but it might thereby lose its charm. It has held its place for a century and a half among the first families of the first city of America and is still the pride of its members and is spoken of to friends as "my library."

The printed cards of the Library of Congress have been used as far as possible for new books in our card catalogue since last June. For books copyrighted in America the service has been prompt and satisfactory, but for English and foreign books it is of little use.

Among interesting gifts may be mentioned a calendar frame made from wood taken from the house in Petty France, Westminster, where John Milton lived from 1651 to 1660 and where he became blind and began the dictation of "Paradise Lost." This valuable relic was presented by Nathaniel G. Bradford, Jr.

From Mr. Frederic de P. Foster was received an autograph check of Hon. Theodore Roosevelt, dated May 2, 1904, in payment of annual dues to the New York Society Library.

From Mrs. Sallie Morris Cory was received "The Booke of Common Prayer," printed in London by Robert Barker, 1620. It has the Royal Coat-of-Arms on the covers and is said to have been used by James II. when Prince of Wales. It is interesting, not only from its associations but also as an example of the binding of that period. Mrs. Cory also presented a Book of Prayer, printed at London in 1767, illustrated with quaint plates, and "Milton's Paradise Lost," printed at Glasgow in 1766, the book being formerly the property of Antony Morris, a brother of Robert Morris of Revolutionary fame (ancestors of Mrs. Cory).

Exceedingly interesting, historically, is the volume "Views of Early New York, 1650 to 1801" (privately printed), presented by Henry Cotheal Swords, Esq.

The Chairman of the Library Committee, while on his annual trip abroad, purchased for the Library, among other sumptuous and expensive works, "Foster's Miniatures," in two volumes. This copy is number 21 of 45 copies, and the plates are hand-colored, being nearly equal to the originals in beauty of execution and artistic qualities.

He also purchased "Propert's History of the Miniature Art," a scarce and valuable work; "Frankau's William and James Ward, Eighteenth Century Artists and Engravers," and "Ward's Life and Works of Romney," in two volumes.

It is with regret that the Trustees record the loss by death of Charles B. Curtis as a member of the Board. Mr. Curtis had been a member of the Board since 1892, acting as Secretary from 1895 to 1903, and as Chairman from 1903 till his death. He was a member of the Library Committee from 1893 to 1903, and his knowledge of painters and painting made his services especially valuable.

Respectfully,

F. AUGS. SCHERMERHORN,

Chairman.
