ADVERTISEMENT.

IT was intended to have published an entire new Catalogue, in which the Books should be scientifically arranged; but the expense of such a publication would have been so considerable, that, in the present state of the funds of the Society, it was thought that the money would be better appropriated to the purchase of new books.

This Supplement, though arranged like the former Catalogue, contains a full and satisfactory account of the titles of the several books which have been added since 1793. It is hoped that the future acquisitions will be still more considerable.
